- IB Learner Profile: Caring: As we enter the Thanksgiving season, caring for others, being thankful and mindful are prevalent in our thoughts. A few ways to help our student with caring is to make caring for others a priority, provide opportunities for children to practice caring and gratitude, expand their circle of concern, be a strong moral role model and mentor and guide children in managing destructive feelings into a more reflective, caring viewpoint. Classrooms at Bradley are reflecting on their thoughts – do they not like math because they did bad in one area but mastered all other areas? Remind them that it was just a hard part of math, not overall math that was difficult.

The format will be just like last year with a 5k run/walk/trot starting at Eisenhower Park Rec Center.
