Interim Art Teacher: Ms. Lori Musselman

Art News Beat

The last rotation in art students looked at the ancient technique of mosaic then created their own mosaics by drawing, then cutting and arranging tiles made from a rainbow of colored paint sample cards. (Special shout out to Guirys, Home Depot, and Sherwin Williams for donating the materials!)

Additionally, students brainstormed then answered the question, “When I grow up I hope...” posed by Google for its Doodle for Google contest. Themes included, family, community, school, environment, and the world. The students did some amazing thinking and imagining! Students who chose to enter the contest now have their final pieces attached to a permission form to be signed that will be sent home by their teachers. This may either be submitted online at home or returned to Miss Lori in art NO LATER than March 15th so she can get them ready to submit by mail.

This rotation in art students are looking closely at patterns in nature. We talked about noticing patterns all around, paying particular attention to spirals and how often they can be found in nature, in flowers, shells, the galaxy and even our own DNA! We also examined the Fibonacci sequence and its appearance in nature as well. We are creating a series of small sketches focused on those patterns which we will then paint or color with pencil. These sketches will then be arranged as a triptych wall hanging piece.
