PROBLEM SOLVING #1

NAME: _____

It snowed 9 inches today! That is 6 more inches than Saturday and 5 more inches than Sunday. Can you believe it is supposed to snow twice as much tomorrow as it did today?

- How many inches of snow fell on Saturday?
- How many inches of snow fell on Sunday?
- How many inches of snow are supposed to fall tomorrow?

Show your thinking.

It snowed _____ inches on Saturday.

It snowed _____ inches on Sunday.

It is supposed to snow _____ inches tomorrow.

WRITING PROMPTS

NAME: _____

Keep a journal of your thoughts and activities during the break! If you would like to use any of the optional prompts below, cut out the prompt and glue it to the first lines of the journal page before responding.

NOT A NORMAL DAY!

Compare and contrast a typical day of the school week with a day during break. How are the two days similar? How are they different?

BEST VS. WORST

Make a list of the best things about winter and the worst things about winter!

WINTER IS IN THE AIR

Complete the following thought, using rich details and examples.

I know it's winter when...

MY SOUP

January is National Soup Month! Create a recipe for a new soup! Name your soup, write the ingredients list, and write the directions needed to make your soup!

SNOWSTORM ALERT!

A snowstorm has hit your town overnight! There is 2 feet of snow outside! The only way you and your family are able to leave your home is on foot. What do you do? Where do you go? Describe your day!
